Washington — President-Elect Hoover looks better and better as he assumes the care of future presidential business.

Seated with him in his office just before his departure for Florida, this correspondent saw a cheerfulness, a humor and a spirit of eagerness never noted before. As secretary of commerce both at his office and at his home Mr. Hoover almost always carried a solem air. Sometimes it reflected worry, sometimes an intense not having seen the president-elect since the campaign, it was natural to observe contrasts. The campaign seems to have revived the generosity of youth for there is no better way to make new contacts and receive the inspiration of association with folks generally than on the stump. Other presidents have remarked upon it and the effect of crowds and contact with many different types of people, is just as definite in one direction as is isolation and seclusion in producing the opposite result.

Mr. Hoover seems happy. Work as such never made him apprehensive or uneasy. He relishes large responsibility but it is one thing to approach tasks as a subordinate and quite another thing to do as one's own judgement dictates.

SELECTS CAREFULLY

Mr. Hoover saw a number of correspondents individually in the last ten days but did not, of course, talk for quotation. Members of congress have in their conferences talked mostly about cabinet places and a little about legislation. Mr. Hoover hasn't selected his cabinet. He is far more concerned about the type of man than any political considerations. He wants conscientious public servants and when his cabinet is finally announced it probably will reveal his intense interest in getting an official family whose personal equations he knows intimately.

Mr. Hoover will not be away from the national capital very long. He probably will be here at least 10 days before inauguration. The truth is he will play a little and get the benefit of the winter sun in Florida but he will be back here soon for the simple reason that he just can't stay away — he is eager to get to work.

3,000 ARE UP FOR HEARINGS AFTER DRIVE

4,000 Men and Women Are Taken in Net of Police in Chicago Cleanup

Chicago — (AP) — Police sweepings in the 4,000 men and women arrested in a crook cleanup without post-war precedent — were being suited Tuesday by police, prosecutors and the courts.

Analysis of the results of the raids were far from complete, for every jail in the city was crowded and the task of making a complete check was necessarily slow. Courts, however, were cooperating, habeas corpus petitions being temporarily denied in every case where police officials requested more time for investigation.

Trials of more than 3,000 of those arrested were started Tuesday, the cases being distributed among the various police courts, charges in most cases being disorderly conduct or vagrancy.

With the exception of approximately 500 released when they proved themselves innocent of wrongdoing, all those arrested in the Saturday, Sunday and Monday cleanup were booked. Sixteen hundred of those arrested were found to have had police records, Deputy Commissioner Stege said.

MANY FATE VICTIMS

For ten hours Monday these 1,600 were paraded across the brilliantly lighted stage at the detective bureau before an audience made up of detectives and the victims of recent holdups and robberies. The prisoners moved slowly across the stage, being required to stand in different positions in the hope that identifications might be made.

Following the show-up police began accepting bonds for those prisoners who had not been identified and 10 extra desk sergeants were employed to speed the routine.

During the entire show-up a high ranking police officer stood beside the stage, reciting the crime record of each prisoner as he appeared.

Several men wanted in connection with specific crimes were found to have been caught in the cleanup. Five aliens were arrested and turned over to immigration authorities for deportation. Aliens have been blamed by police for many of the crimes of violence within the past few months.

Italian Freighter Has Broken Rudder—U. S. Vessel Also Is Disabled

New York — (AP) — Two freighters were in distress off the Virginia coast Tuesday the Florida and the Danadae.

The Florida, an Italian freighter of 3,500 gross tons, scuttled an SOS from about 800 miles of Cape Hatteras, reporting a broken rudder.

The Dannadene, an American ship of 2,520 tons, was reported in a radioed wireless message to be in need of immediate assistance not far from the Florida.

The United States liner America and the Dollar liner President Harrison were both reported rushing to the aid of the disabled steamers.

Paris — (AP) — Marshal Foch's doctors Tuesday morning issued this bulletin:

"The condition is very much better. The patient is allowed to sit up a full hour today. A visit by anyone remains absolutely forbidden."

Madame Fournier, the marshal's daughter who was summoned when his illness was grave, returned to her home in Paris Tuesday.

All the dead were in the bus, which was demolished. The driver, who escaped injury, was believed to have been blinded by the snow storm and failed to see the approaching car.

Four ambulances took the dead and injured to the morgue and Bellevue hospital. The bus was so completely smashed that an unknown number of bodies were still pinned underneath the wreckage two hours after the accident.

Florida Greets Hoover At Gigantic Reception

Miami, Fla. — (AP) — The special train bearing President-Elect Hoover and his party into Miami for his pre-inaugural visit to Florida, arrived here at 2 o'clock.

The party disembarked from the nine car train, preceded into Miami by a pilot train and immediately was plunged in a statewide welcome which had been prepared through several weeks by a general committee of prominent citizens.

After the formal welcome and review of the parade, Mr. Hoover will go to the new home on Belle Isle prepared for him. He has no appointments for Tuesday and is planning to make preparations for a fishing trip which may be begun as early as Thursday. There are plenty of fishing camps along the keys twenty miles or so from Miami, and guides are waiting to show him the choice lurking places of the big game fish for which the edge of the gulf stream along this coast is famous.

While Mr. Hoover is ready to declare a vacation on politics, cabinet speculation continued on his train. The only shred of information upon which to pin anything of importance in this connection was the suggestion from Mr. Hoover's associates that Dwight Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, if he comes to Florida on his way home from Nassau, as is expected.

Mr. Hoover had more than three hundred visitors in Washington, but he will only have a few in Florida and those by invitation. These few may be regarded as legitimate material for political pierment.

Washington — (AP) — A plan to place a $24,000,000 prohibition enforcement fund in the hands of the president was advanced in the senate Tuesday by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, who precipitated the most recent wet and dry argument with his proposal to add $25,000,000 to the amount now available for the work.

As debate on the subject was resumed, the Georgian urged that the appropriation, which Secretary Mellon has opposed at this time, be turned over to the White House for allocation to the coast guard, border patrol, department of justice, and all other agencies connected with enforcement.

Senator George, of Georgia, came demand for the increase in the prohibition fund. He declared that all the support of his colleague in the prohibition argument comes down to a statement by the west that the Volstead law could not be enforced, and a statement by the drys that it could be enforced if an honest effort were made.

George predicted that the prohibition issue would play a part in the such an effort were made.

"The people do not want prohibition made a political issue," he said.

FATE IN DOUBT

Disagreement between individuals and organizations identified with prohibition as to the advisability of appropriating an additional $25,000,000 for liquor law enforcement has given rise to speculation in the senate on the ultimate fate of this proposal which has stirred up so much debate.

Since the increase was recommended by Senator Harris, the record of sentiment from dry leaders and organizations has been more or less of a see-saw and thus to some extent reflected Tuesday the situation in the senate itself.

At one time Senator Harris voted to put over his proposal which is in the form of an amendment to a deficiency bill. But from the way things have been going it now appears that the vote on the Harris amendment or one of the several substitutes offered for it will be close.

County Needs Heavier Equipment To Keep Roads Open

CAN'T SHOVE DRIFTS WITH LIGHT TRUCKS

Machinery Designed for Summer Use Not Adequate in Winter

Since the influenza epidemic swept over Appleton the principal topic of conversation is the condition of Outagamie-co highways since the big snow storm of two weeks ago and a favorite sport these days, both indoors and outdoors, has been to compare Outagamie-co highways with roads in other counties and the comparison is not favorable to this county.

While there are apologists for the condition of Outagamie-co highways this winter, even the most biased partisan of this county has been forced to admit that as a whole Outagamie-co has not measured up to the job of keeping the roads open under snow conditions encountered this year. In almost every instance those counties which are making a real pretense of removing snow from their highways have performed a better job than Outagamie-co, and this naturally raises the question of why this community has lagged.

MUCH DISCUSSION

Since the big snow storm there have been all kinds of reasons advanced. It has been charged that the county equipment was not in shape for use when the snow came and as a result the snow got the jump on the snow fighters and the county was locked. There have been charges of inefficiency in the conduct of the highway department so far as the removal of snow was concerned and there have been other charges, none of which "hit the nail on the head" by definitely stating the trouble.

The reason why Outagamie-co roads were not opened after the storm and why some of them are not opened even to this day, after a lapse of more than two weeks, is simply lack of equipment. That is the sole reason and no matter what else the county does in the future if cannot hope to open highways after severe storms and keep them open unless it purchases sufficient equipment of a type designed to carry the extraordinary heavy burden of removing snow.

Last year, using the same equipment it now has, the county was able to keep the roads open because there was very little snow. Almost any kind of a truck attached to a plow could push aside the small amount of snow covering the highways, but this year, with drifts from three to six feet across the roads, equipment of a radically different type was required and the county didn't have it.

COUNTY EQUIPMENT

Outagamie-co owns at this time four caterpillar tractors, five or six four wheel drive trucks rated at three ton capacity and maybe a half dozen or more rear driven trucks of smaller capacity. Out of this total equipment only the caterpillar trucks are of sufficient weight and strength to be really effective for removing heavy snow, such as fell this year. But the caterpillar trucks are slow, lumbering affairs, with a speed of about $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour without load and a speed of not to exceed $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour pushing snow. The county has 499 miles of county and state trunk highways and four tractors pushing snow at the rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles an hour couldn't open those roads in three weeks.

Augmenting the tractors are six trucks, including the four wheel drive affairs and one large rear driven machine. This equipment was purchased for road construction and maintenance in the summer and gives splendid service, but it failed when it came to bucking snow. Not less than eight times have trucks been returned to the county garage in the last two weeks to replace broken axles; last Saturday three of these trucks were in the county garage for repairs. The smaller trucks also pressed into the snow removal service were even worse off and there were two or three of those "on the shelf" awaiting repairs.

Investigation disclosed that all the machinery considered fit for fighting snow was in shape to start the job when the snow fell and did get on the job right away. But no sooner had the trucks started than their troubles began. Axles snapped off, carburetors froze up and other mishaps, due quite largely to the fact that the machines were not designed for the kind of abuse that fighting snow entails, put these trucks out of commission and the number of machines available for fighting snow decreased to almost zero and in the meantime the drifting snow closed up the narrow cuts already made in the highways. Each day the difficulty became more acute and the result is that Outagamie-co fell far behind its neighbors in the matter of keeping its roads open.

Everyone who has taken the time to look into this matter of snow removal admits that the task of keeping the highways open is a man-sized job under even the most favorable conditions and it is well nigh impossible without adequate equipment.

adjournment of an attempted impeachment session of the legislature last winter, were determined, through special committee, to seek the foundation for these rumors in an open inquiry scheduled to start Tuesday in the senate chamber.

VALLEY MINISTERS ELECT NEW LEADERS

Green Bay Pastor Elected President at Lutheran Conference

The Rev. Julius Bergholz, of Green Bay, was elected president of the Fox River Valley Lutheran Ministerial association at the Monday evening session of the conference of valley ministers of the Wisconsin synod in the Mount Olive church parlors. Other officers elected are the Rev. G. E. Boettcher of Hortonville, vice president, and the Rev. Fred Uetzmann, Wrightstown, secretary. Regular business matters were discussed at the meeting.

The Rev. G. E. Detman of this city was in charge of the Tuesday morning session of the conference and read a paper on the life of St. Paul. Twenty-two valley ministers were present. Special services are to be held in the church at 7:45 Tuesday evening, and the Rev. Mr. Boettcher of Hortonville will preach the sermon.

Light trucks breaking down under stress in zero temperatures soon take the enthusiasm out of the most sanguine workmen and it would indeed be noteworthy if an organization could keep fighting against the odds which faced Outagamie-co after the big storm.

The experience of the county has conclusively proved that roads cannot be kept open in a normal winter, and this is a normal winter for Wisconsin, with equipment designed and purchased to haul gravel in the summer. The trucks which Outagamie-co has are adequate for every demand during the summer road construction and road maintenance season but they are entirely inadequate for winter maintenance.

The moral is that if Outagamie-co is to continue in the business of keeping its highways open in the winter it must invest in special equipment for that purpose, even if this equipment must remain idle during the summer months. It has been rather difficult to convince some members of the county board that the county should purchase trucks and other equipment primarily for snow removal and permit them to be idle in the summer time, but experience has shown that trucks perfectly satisfactory for summer use are not heavy and powerful enough for winter abuse.

Other counties learned this lesson years ago and the result is they have equipment of sufficient weight and strength to keep roads open and their roads are open.

The Outagamie county highway commission also has come to a realization of this fact and is giving serious consideration to the large trucks. At a meeting of the commission Monday afternoon, when bids for snow removal equipment were opened, salesmen for the larger and heavier trucks were invited to demonstrate their machines in the snow now on county roads.

This action apparently means that Outagamie-co is going into the snow removal business as a permanent policy and it means to equip itself so there never again will be the complaint that arose this year.

Meanwhile W. J. Holloway, lieutenant governor, became acting governor.

Tramping underfoot what little opposition arose, the senate, in less than half an hour after it received the five articles of impeachment which were voted in a hectic night session of the house last week, deposed Governor Johnston Monday, elevated Lieut. VARIETY CLUB ORGANIZED AT JUNIOR SCHOOL

A Variety club, so-named and so-organized, is one of the new ventures at Wilson Junior high school in the line of clubs. The group, composed of 30 or more girls who have aspirations toward various kinds of activities, has pledged itself to any sort of activity that is socially desirable, and so far their work has been a composite of recreational and social service work.

At Thanksgiving time their charitable instincts turned to the preparation of three baskets for poor families, and at Christmas time they took over the responsibility of assisting with the Christmas program which was on the verge of collapsing due to the inroads of the influenza epidemic. Other activities have been a weiner roast, and a Christmas party, and a theatre party is in the offing.

Officers of the club are Miss Mildred Lewis, president; Miss Marjorie Feavel, vice-president; and Miss Margaret Hosegood, secretary.

Anti-plague Association Sends Speaker to County Normal School

"Teaching of Teachers How to Teach Health" will be the theme of a series of lectures and demonstrations by Miss Alta C. Money raised by the sale of Christmas seals are used for this and other work of the association.

URGES COOPERATION BETWEEN CARRIERS AND RAIL SHIPPERS

Traffic Head Tells About Procedure Before Rate Commission

In his talk on procedure before the state railroad rate commission before a group of shippers, railroad men and persons taking the traffic study course of the Apleton Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at Hotel Northern Monday evening, William Ehmann, head of the traffic division of the rate commission urged cooperation between shippers, carriers, and the commission. He especially urged that carriers and shippers cooperate, so that rail traffic in Wisconsin will be more harmonious.

"No one can be right all of the time when it comes to traffic problems," Mr. Ehmann stated. "If shippers and carriers agree to cooperate and consult each other orally they could accomplish more in five minutes than they could if they carried on weeks of correspondence," the speaker said.

"The state commission which is directed entirely by law, must recognize the difference between the right and wrong parties in the case," the speaker continued. "Manufacturers in most cases have a variety of commodities with which they can realize profit, while carriers or railroads have but transportation to sell," Mr. Ehmann said.

SEWERAGE SYSTEM FOR VALLEY ISN'T FAVORED BY MAYOR

Project Would Add Too Heavy a Burden on Appleton, He Points Out

Proposed construction of a metropolitan sewerage system in the Fox River valley, advanced by Dr. Clarence Baker, former state sanitary engineer, at the chamber of commerce forum meeting this week, failed to elicit much enthusiasm from Mayor A. C. Rule.

He admitted that such a system, disposing of the sewage of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kimberly, Combined Locks, Little Chute, and Kaukauna, would be a splendid undertaking from the standpoint of the state, in that it would be a big step in purifying the water of the Fox River.

But looking at the project from a business standpoint, and with the welfare of this city at heart, he did not view the idea with much favor.

The proposal would merely mean the addition of an extra $400,000 or $500,000 load against the city for sewer expenditures, he pointed out.

"Appleton already has planned construction of a sewerage system of its own," he said. "Storm water and sanitary sewers will be separated throughout the city, the storm water to be dumped into the river, and the sanitary sewage to be handled at a sewage disposal plant. Construction of the first unit of the intercepting sewer along the north bank of the river will start in the spring. The entire project will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000."

BIG LOAD HERE

"If cities in this community agreed to the metropolitan sewerage plan, the municipalities would be placed in a sewerage district, and cost of the system would be assessed against the cities and villages in the district. Appleton, with approximately half the population of the entire district, naturally would be assessed about half the cost, and I don't think it unreasonable to estimate the cost of such a project at a million dollars or more. Thus it is readily seen that the city's share would be about $500,000, or possibly more."

The cost of a huge intercepting sewer from Neenah to Kaukauna would run considerably over $1,000,000, the mayor estimated. He said the interceptor probably would have to be a 60 inch pipe of brick, the cost of which would amount to $15 a foot. As more than 14 miles of intercepting sewer would have to be installed, the cost would easily exceed a million dollars.

Besides this cost, a disposal plant which would probably cost between $100,000 and $200,000, and possibly more, would have to be constructed at Kaukauna, according to the mayor.

"All of this expense would be in addition to the several hundred thousand that is now being contemplated for improvement of the sewerage system in the city," he said. "Whether the metropolitan idea is carried out or not, we must separate our sewers here."

"With all these factors taken into consideration, I cannot see how we can look upon such a plan with much favor. What it would really amount to would be that Appleton would have to pay for the biggest share of the sewerage system cost for all the other cities and villages in this community."

Jungle Danger Routine To These Film Makers

BY DAN THOMAS
Hollywood, Calif.—Dangers are jokes to two of Hollywood's best movie makers, Ernest B. Schoedsack and Merian C. Cooper.

Perhaps you don't recognize these men by name. But you know their products well. They are the men who penetrated Africa to film "Grass" and "Chang," stories dealing with real native life. And they have just completed "Four Feathers," another story laid largely in the African jungles.

"Once when we were making "Chang," a tiger came sneaking toward us in the dugout we had built for our cameras," relates Cooper. "The whole situation was so funny that I laughed so hard I could hardly pull my gun to shoot him." What a sense of humor!

However, these men aren't only super-braves. They are ranked among the best makers of motion pictures in the entire industry. They make everything from writing their own stories to cutting the film. Their company consists of themselves—nobody else.

Schoedsack started in the movie racket some years before the war as a cameraman on the old Mack Sennett lot. That was in the days of the famous Keystone Kops. Cooper's first cinema experience was when he joined forces with Schoedsack to make "Grass."

"There are certain elements which every film must contain, otherwise it is nothing but a trifle," declares Schoedsack. "The most important one is that of combat. The average motion picture is based upon combat between man and woman, two men, or two women. In 'Chang' the struggle was between the natives and wild animals.

LESS MONEY BANKED BY SCHOOL PUPILS

Only 82 Per Cent Bank on Tuesday, School Officials Report

Christmas evidently was a great drain on the finances of public school pupils, for only 82 per cent of them banked on the Tuesday following their return to school after the Christmas vacation. A total of $1,169.01 was deposited by 2,655 pupils, bringing the balance on deposit up to $2,374.88. Twenty-two pupils withdrew $159.50 during the week and $26.24 interest was credited.

The amounts deposited according to schools was: First Ward, 309 depositors, $23.08; Franklin, 203, $50.98; Washington, 266, $69.42; Richmond, 49, $7.18; Jefferson, 218, $55.83; Columbus, 205, $86.49; McKinley, 61, $11.82; Fourth Ward, 132, $49.66; Lincoln, 123, $45.05; Roosevelt, 361, $217.61; Wilson, 258, $88.77; Appleton high school, 459, $190.79.

be impossible because we can never tell what the situation will be when we get into Africa. Neither do we go ahead blindly and shoot a lot of film and then return to Hollywood and attempt to make a story out of it.

"Our procedure is to get a logical idea for a natural story based on Africa and African life. Then we set out to make the picture, filming such scenes as will be of value to our basic idea. The most difficult part of our work is in handling the natives. For example, they cannot understand why anyone should stage a battle just for fun. Nor can they realize the value of what we are doing.

"If we are only half through a sequence in which we are using a particular group of natives and they decide that they should go home and tend to their rice fields, nothing will stop them. Not even by offering them more money than the value of their entire rice crop can we get them to stay."

Another policy of Schoedsack and Cooper is never to film anything away from Hollywood that can be done here. In "Four Feathers," which they have just finished, some of the scenes are laid in England. And all of them were filmed right here in the Paramount studio. There is no use in going to England to make something that can be done better, and more cheaply right here, they say.

Within the next couple of months this pair, the tall Schoedsack and short, stocky Cooper, plan to embark for Africa again. They will be gone for a year or two, filming their fourth picture.

NIGHT NURSE SOON ENDED SEVERE COLD

Almost Instant Relief Came When Doctor Advised Method Used
In Homes of Many Here

Realizing the needless misery and risk so often caused by neglected colds, doctors are now advising a quick method that gives almost instant relief — there ends the cold completely in a few hours. And now Mrs. Edith Healy, hospital nurse, like numbers of people here, realizes how needless it is to take chances on a cold when relief can be had so quickly and pleasantly.

Long hours of duty as night nurse—frequent trips from warm sick rooms into chilly halls—caused Mrs. Healy to catch a severe cold. It started in her head but she made the mistake of neglecting it—until inspiration struck her suddenly. Then she consulted one of the hospital physicians who advised Ayer's Pectoral—a hospital certified medication of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients now

"We know our Luckies That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this year ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:

MENASHA BOWLINGWOMAN IS BADLY BURNED BY BLAST

Neighbor Breaks Down Door to Save Woman Enveloped in Flames

Menasha—Mrs. Norman Metzen, whose clothing was set on fire by an explosion while using an inflammable polish on a hot stove, was burned much more seriously than was at first supposed. Her neck and left hand particularly are badly burned, but her chance for recovery is considered favorable. Because a door was locked Mrs. Curtis, a tenant on the same floor, had to break down the door before she could get to her and found her enveloped in flames. She tore from her what clothing she could and smothered the rest of the flames with a rug. Mrs. Metzen was running back and forth in her kitchen at the time. Mrs. Curtis has not yet recovered from the nervous shock to which she was subjected.

TO MR. LANDIS

The United States supreme court sent a sour Valentine to former Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, now czar of baseball, in its decision on diverting water from Lake Michigan for the Chicago drainage canal. And it was not the first backhanded compliment which the high court has paid the once sensational jurist.

The federal government's suit to enjoin Chicago from taking an excessive amount of water from Lake Michigan was filed in 1913. The supreme court in 1925 declared: "After it was submitted to the judge, according to his own statement, he kept it about six years before delivering an oral opinion in favor of the government of June 19, 1920. No valid excuse was offered for the delay. There was a motion for re-consideration, but the judge took no further action of any kind until he resigned in 1922"—the year Judge Landis decided to shepherd-major league baseball out of scandal and disrepute.

In Monday's decision the supreme court reminded the public that one of the reasons Chicago had gone on taking 8,500 feet of Lake Michigan water in defiance of law was "the inexcusable delay made possible by the failure of the federal court in Chicago to render a decision of the suit brought by the United States." This delay, the court said, had made it possible for Chicago to set up the plea that it was entitled to the excess diversion to "preserve the health of the district. Putting this plea forward has tended materially to hamper and obstruct the remedy to which the complainants are entitled in vindication of their rights, riparian and other."

After this delay Lakes Michigan and Huron struck the disastrous low ebb of 1925-6, when the extra half foot taken by Chicago could mean the difference between profit and loss in the loading of lake vessels. Chicago meantime refrained from taking any action toward disposing of its existing load of sewage in any other way than via the excess diversion. So property owners and shippers on the lakes owe it largely to Kenesaw Mountain Landis that they will have to wait five or six years longer than was necessary for Chicago to handle its sanitation problem in a modern way and stop extracting lake levels. And it is very seldom that the United States supreme court goes out of its way in so downright a fashion to condemn a judge in the lower courts.

SICK LEAVE

New York city is the best tube in the country for studying the flu epidemic. Its health commissioner makes a report which should be read throughout the United States.

He reveals that only four and a half per cent of all influenza cases in nine days in that city have been fatal. But influenza due to failure of the patients to recognize it or obey orders or take treatment has led repeatedly to pneumonia. In this same nine day period thirty-one per cent of New York city's 1,622 cases of pneumonia proved fatal.

Flu, or at least this year's edition of it, is not so bad of itself. What kills is the mistaken assumption that flu is over when it isn't, or rather when its effects have not passed away sufficiently and pneumonia lurks just around the corner for the unwary. The health commissioner pleads that "all employers realize that a sick workman is not only a menace to his fellow workers but is seriously endangering his own health by continuing on the job."

The liberal policy on sick leaves which this authority asks is based upon a mass of tragic evidence and upon statistics which are incontrovertible. It goes for the country at large as well as New York.

A SEABOARD FIB

Edward C. Carrington, chairman of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways association, regales the people of Chicago via the Chicago Tribune with an insinuation that the St. Lawrence seaway would really cost more than the waterway he is supporting, dug across the entire state of New York.

Mr. Carrington says the estimate of the United States chief of engineers who reported that the St. Lawrence waterway cost for navigation works would be only $173,520,000 divided between the United States and Canada while the route via the Hudson would cost $506,000,000 all out of the American treasury—is "at variance by the small sum of $600,000,000 with the Canadian estimate of cost."

But the Canadian estimate of $783,930,000 with respect to the St. Lawrence seaway did not refer to the seaway alone. It included work already done in the St. Lawrence channel, which would not have to be done again. It included construction of the locks at the Soo, the Welland and St. Lawrence canals. It included work still to be done by Canada at Welland. It included all the American ship channels in the international waterways, already built or to be enlarged.

Mr. Carrington knows all this. Yet he broadcasts an assumption that these expenses are exclusively related to the St. Lawrence seaway, and part of the cost of constructing it as compared with constructing his Hudson route.

The New York project rests on fibs like this, selfish politics, and seaboard indifference to the genuine needs and serious handicaps of the middle west. Mr. Carrington offers a beautiful example of the character of opposition to the St. Lawrence route. In its intellectual dishonesty that opposition is unworthy of American respect.

THE ELDERLY VICTIM

Death of an elderly pedestrian in a nearby traffic accident calls attention again to the handicap of the older generation in modern traffic—a handicap of habit.

Recently a safety expert recalled the conditions which surrounded in their youth most of the people who now are fifty-five years or older. If they lived in the city they had to consider only horse-drawn traffic; if in the country, horses and oxen. A horse would shy around a child in the road, as a rule, and an ox step carefully over it or stop. People walked fearlessly into the highway. A runaway was about the only genuine peril except in the largest cities. Speed was so moderate that a glance at the immediate vicinity of an intersection was all that was needed to insure safety. The older generation of today formed its subconscious traffic habits under these circumstances.

Changing the old brain tracks has been difficult for many. By comparison the modern child is fortunate. He learns a wholesome fear of the highway from the time his mother first lets him play on the sidewalk, with frequent reminders as he starts to school.

He has the right complex when he approaches a curb. The excessive number of traffic accidents among elderly people may be laid to the misfortune of their early training as much as to their lack of agility. The older a man is the more set he is in early habits. It is necessary for him to keep this educational handicap in mind, remembering that his instinct is all wrong for modern conditions, and will normally lead him straight into danger unless he imposes a conscious control over it.

A STRANGE KIND OF FAME

Strange are the kinds of achievements by which some men's names are remembered.

Harry S. Lehr recently died in Baltimore, leaving a kind of fame as peculiar as a man might gain. In the gay nineties Lehr was called the "P. T. Barnum of Society." He indulged in many odd pranks for the delectation of the 400 at New York and Newport. Once he invited friends to a formal dinner for a monkey. At another time he feted a white mule in similar fashion. Once he waded in a lawn fountain, clad in evening dress. And so on, to the great amusement of an earlier generation.

Given half a dozen decades out of all eternity to do something notable and worthy, men often get off on curious tracks. Surely, no man ever left a stranger claim to fame than Harry S. Lehr.

Busy men have too much on their hands to be handing people with gloves.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse
Than the Malady

THE CURE MILITANT

Dear Post-Tonic:
I was listening in on the radio the other night and found myself engrossed in a midnight broadcast from a Chicago religious institute and a prizewinner from the San Francisco stadium. It went like this:

"My blessed radio friends, I have before me two excellent types of Christian manhood—" "Both boys are stripped down to regulation going trim and they look good. Say, believe me, they look swell!" About evenly matched—"They are young men—the sort one is proud to know, the sort one meets everyday in the ordinary walk of life, yet tonight they are not the same. They are changed. Their faces shine with happiness, and they will tell you what it means to walk the Christian pathway—" "There's the gong! Wow! that was a quick one from Maltby's left hook that caught Kelly admiringly. They clinch! There was a sock from Kelly to Maltby's chin. Boy! This is action!" "He tells you in his own words of this wonderful experience—" "Fourth round—Maltby just received a right one from Kelly's left hook—" "It was living carelessly, recklessly without thought of the future when suddenly there was a flash of light—" "He's down! What a smash that was! There's the count 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10! He's out!" —Country Cousin.

HER REACTION

"Darling," he cried, covering her little hands with kisses, "can't you see I love you?" "Well," she said, "I should hate to think this was just your way of behaving in company."

At at revival in the south converts were coming forward. A Negro came striding down the aisle and dropped to his knees. He was bare-footed and two enormous feet stuck up behind as he knelt.

The visiting revivalist, old and very near sighted, started up the aisle, kneeling here and there beside the converts. He peered earnestly at the Negro, patted him on the shoulder, and murmured: "Bless you brother." Then kneeling behind him and putting a hand on each of the Negro's heels, he said: "And bless these two dear boys."

Scientists tell us the earth moves in three directions at one time. The earth's performance, however, is not sensational when compared with that of a barber shop porter of our acquaintance. He was introduced to a white-headed ghost one evening under propitious circumstances, and as we recall it he scattered in five or six different directions simultaneously.—Marquette Eagle Star Star.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Fire at 4:25 that morning totally destroyed the Ryan high school causing a property loss of $50,000. All records were destroyed. The origin of the fire remained a mystery.

Few fish had been caught in Lake Winnebago since the cold wave had made its appearance.

W. G. Thompson of this city and Miss Schmidt of New London were married at New London that morning.

At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Tissue Paper company, Joseph E. Thomas was elected secretary and manager in place of A. P. Brown, resigned.

Bad weather was predicted for February.

RUMOR CONCERNING A ROYAL RIB

It seems there is such a thing as breaking the news too soon. I published a special article about the King's illness several days in advance of the first of scores of such articles contributed to newspapers by other medical experts in America. I felt pleased about this "scop." but the letters written by people who are interested in the case I conclude that but few regular readers noticed it.

One inquirer submits a number of questions about phases of the King's illness—or rather about the conjectures the reporters have made about it—and among them this:

"Won't you tell us why they removed the King's rib and why, when they said he was travelling along the road to Wellville they're now almost dead? Is professional etiquette will allow, please tell your readers about all this."

Scientists tell me what to use to get rid of snakes. We have some in the basement and some of them have gotten up in the house. The only one I saw was short and thick with a blunt nose and tail. I tried some poison I got at the druggist, folded in a piece of salt pork, and the snakes did not touch it. (N. H.)

An answer—Trying keeping a pig. Venomous snakes are short and thick, compared with the long slender harmless varieties. A good cat would probably make short work of ordinary snakes.

Nine Broken Collar Bones

We have four children, the oldest 8 years, the youngest not quite a year old. The three oldest have had nine broken collar bones and one broken leg. The 3-year-old boy has a broken collar bone now. They get them by light falls when running and playing. (Mrs. L. K.)

Answer—The only thing I can suggest is that you make sure the children are getting a proper iodin ration. Use only iodized salt in cooking, and on the table, or give each child a drop of ordinary tincture of iodin in a glassful of water once a week.

Eskimo Dog

I have been presented with a little Eskimo dog 3 months old. Having never before owned a dog I would appreciate advice in regard to feeding and care. (E. L.)

Answer—from my researches and extensive vicarious Arctic exploration, I should say feed the dog a nice young walrus every morning and see that he is locked up where the polar bears can't get at him in the night.

PUNISHMENT,
WHEN, WHERE
AND ALSO, HOW

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
I do not believe that parents as a rule possess the ability to put themselves in their children's place or they certainly would change their tactics in many things, among them public punishment.

If grown-ups only knew how children suffer under public chastisement, not the pain of punishment itself but the agony of shame, I'll lay a good wager there would be less of it—or better still, none.

Something goes wrong—the mother gets mad and takes out her anger or hysteria on the child. Why, I ask you, should our children have to be the eternal safety valves through which we let off steam?

One day a little girl getting into an elevator stumbled and fell and cut her lip.

Before she was fairly on her feet her mother caught her and shook her until her teeth rattled. The agony of shame in that little girl's eyes was too much for one passenger at least.

As they got off at an upper floor she stopped and patted the little girl kindly. "I've stumbled at that place several times myself."

"Oh, she's always falling," said the mother apologetically. "I get so out of patience."

The woman did not reply. She would have liked to speak a little piece to that mother, but what would have been the use? Such a mother is a type, and almost incurable.

One day in a toy department I saw a little boy pick up a horn and give it a good loud toot.

His mother grabbed the horn and quick as lightning smacked him on the mouth.

He didn't cry but dove across the aisle to where his sister was standing and doubling up his fist gave her a punch in the back. I don't know what psychology was going on in his mind. Either shame or fury—probably both.

But certainly it won't be his fault if he turns out all wrong some day. No matter if a child is really to blame for something don't scold or punish him in public.

As for striking a child in the face or on the head—that is still another story and a long one.

KNITTING CRAZE AT SMITH COLLEGE

Northampton, Mass.—(AP)—A knitting craze has broken out like an epidemic at Smith College.

The more severe manifestations are as yet confined to dormitories, but is feared that campus and classrooms may yet feel the effects of the sweep. In its wake are found such utilitarian articles as sweater suits rather than the more strictly domestic comforter.

The most desolate locality in the stricken houses is the dining room. Students, according to a newly passed regulation, are not allowed to bring their knitting to meals, lest perchance, the yarn become confused with the food, it said, including that food with the Italian name.

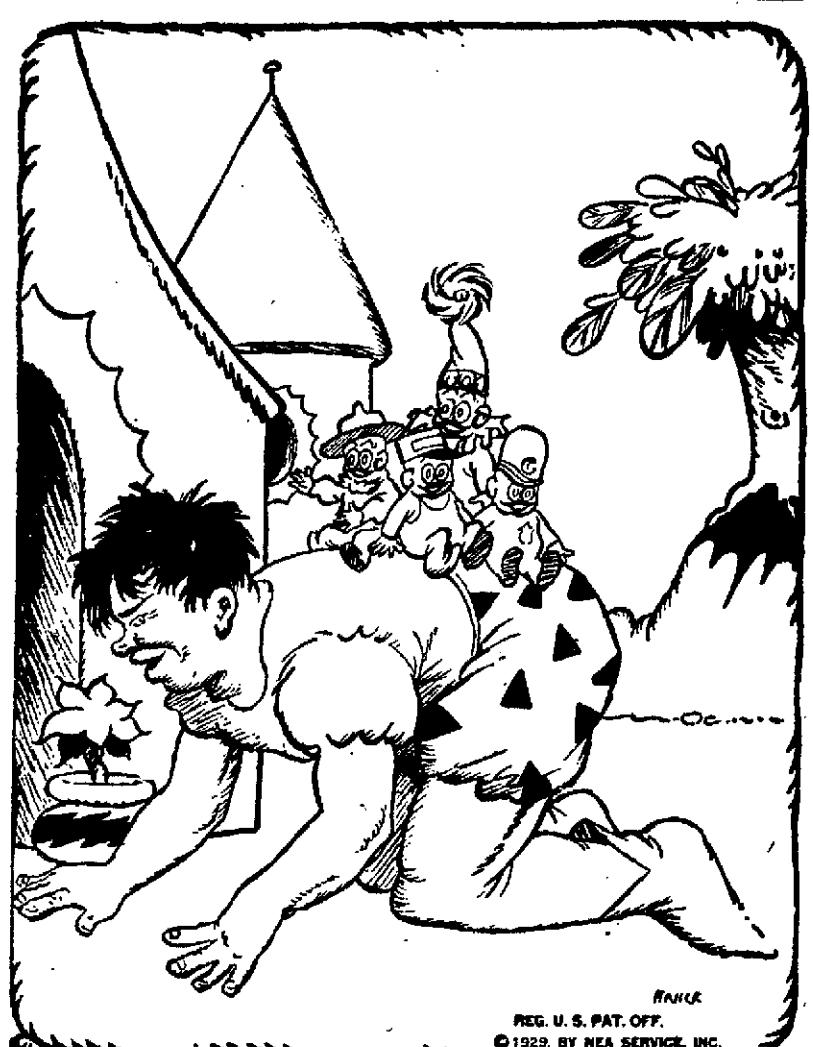

This Victorian pastime is explained by the victims not as a return to naive artlessness, but as a triumph of sophistication.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE giant swung the engine round, and then he set it on the ground. "Hop out, you little Tinymites," he cried in merry tone. "Don't fear that I will hurt you boys. I'm harmless, though I make much noise. As long as you are nice to me, I'll let you all alone."

"That's fair enough," wee Scout said. And then the Tinyte went ahead and jumped out of the engine. Now their small legs ached at first. Said Clowny, "We have sat so long that now our short limbs seem all wrong. I'd like a drink of water, 'cause I have an awful thirst."

"Me, too," cried Carpy. "Would be grand if some nice stream were near at hand, I'm sure that I could drink a quart, and maybe more than that. A cup, though, we forgot to bring. In fact we haven't anything." Then Scout broke right in and said, "Aw shucks, I'll use my hat."

"A good idea, little man," the giant cried. "And now you can just follow me along this trail. We'll find a stream nearby." We may find one that flows straight up. Then you won't need a hat or cup. I'll bet you've never seen a stream that flows up toward the sky."

"Course he was right. The Tinyte never had seen a stream that rose in air. But, 'round a bed they found one, and the drinking was great fun. When each one had a good big share, the giant said, "Look over there! That is my house. Let's go inside. There's room for everyone."

"Say, that's not big enough for you. When you go in, what do you do?" said Carpy. And the giant laughed. "Why I just crawl," said he. "It's easy, on my hands

"I'm Glad Peg didn't come home," Tony observed, as she and Pat Tarver and Sandy Ross crossed the street toward the Hathaway home. "The poor darling would get hysterical and make it harder for Faith. But—wasn't she sweet to me this morning, Pat? Wasn't she—dear? I felt like a little girl again. Oh, Pat, I'm so glad I have you and Peg and Sandy! All propped up with family, I am!"

"Huh! Wonder how young Sandy likes being called family?" Pat teased.

"Oh, he's super-family, a sort of divine big-brother!" Tony retorted. "Why, there's Harry Blaine! I thought he was still in New York. I wonder if he has any news, or if he's been told about Crystal's kidnapping. He's hurrying! I bet he knows something—Let's run, boys!"

The three of them reached the Hathaway porch just as Cherry was opening the door for Harry Blaine.

To Tony, who knew nothing of the visit of Chief of Detectives Maguire and his terrifying news of the finding of a girl's drowned body in the Marlboro river, the reporter's words, which she and her father and Sandy were close enough to overhear, were incomprehensible.

"It wasn't Crystal, thank God," he was saying. "I saw the poor mother of the girl identify the body. Oh, Honey! Lord, but I'm sorry to hear about this! I wish to God I'd come home a week earlier

"We're all wishing we'd done something a little differently," answered Tony soberly. "Now tell me what you were talking about. What do you mean—body?"

Harry Blaine explained. "A poor little telephone operator who was in trouble committed suicide about two days ago by drowning herself in the Marlboro river. Maguire, chief of detectives, who has taken charge of this case personally, thought, from Faith's and Cherry's description of Crystal, that it might be Cry. But it wasn't. Bob Hathaway is with the chief of police now. They're getting ready to 'throw out a drag net,' as the papers call it . . . What's that, Tony? A picture of Crystal? Good! We'll use it in the Press this afternoon."

The photograph, a very large "portrait study" of Crystal Hathaway, was certainly a good likeness of what Crystal, in her most self-deceiving fantasies, believed herself to be.

"Beautiful Stanton Society Girl Kidnapped; Held for Ransom," Cherry quoted future headlines. "If Crystal—I mean—when Crystal comes home, she will be a famous beauty."

"Not the first in the family," Harry Blaine could not resist reminding her. "Hadn't you better tell your sister Faith that the drowned girl wasn't Crystal?"

"Oh, she knows," Cherry answered. "Bob telephoned from the morgue. . . . Faith's all in," she told Tony. "Fainted when the detective told about the drowned girl. The doctor's been here and ordered us to keep her as quiet as possible. I suppose I'll have my hands full, with the reporters and the police and everything. I don't know what I'd do if it weren't for Alan Beardsley." And Cherry looked very tiny and young and helpless—which was exactly as she intended to look.

NEXT: Harry Blaine gets the story. (Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.)

GAY LITTLE HOUSE HAS ROOM FOR TWO

FIRST FLOOR PLAN
HOUSE NO. 87

BY CORA W. WILSON
For NEA Service

HIS little English house is a gay affair just large enough to hold the brand new family of two with an extra bedroom for an occasional guest.

Picture it in deep cream stucco on frame structure with a green shingled roof, or one of those multi-colored shingled ones, and a warm blue-green window trim. The shutters are matching blue-green.

Few people realize how very difficult it is to plan a small five-room house that will fit any neighborhood and any climate. Nothing in the way of moderate conveniences has been omitted and all the rooms are a good size.

From the front door to the kitchen this house radiates cheer, romance, hominess. One enters a large living room with hospitable fireplace on the opposite side. This room leads from the right to an open porch and on the left of the fireplace an arched opening lets upon the dining room.

This house contains 25,000 cubic feet and at the rate of from 40 to 45 feet per room it is a good size.

There are three bay windows looking out upon the garden. Swinging doors lead to the model kitchen, with a 36-inch high sink under a window, and a large pan tray with a hook for the refrigerator which can be iced from the yard.

Two nice sized bedrooms, with cross current ventilation and plenty of closet space, are on this floor, as is a modern bath. The extra bedroom can be finished as an extra bedroom and bath or a play room.

For further information about architect's plan, materials, cost or any other item concerning the house pictured please write C. W. Wilson, 420 Madison avenue, New York, N. Y., and enclose the page of your newspaper upon which this picture appears.

DINNER—Roast lamb, browned potatoes, currant jelly, buttered canned peas, date salad, coconut pudding, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

DATE SALAD

Wash dates well and drain. Make a thin syrup using 2 tablespoons sugar to 1 cup boiling water. Allow 2 or 3 dates for each person to be served. Dip dates into syrup and place on a shallow pan. Put into a moderately cool oven to plump and dry. Remove stones. To one package of Philadelphia cream cheese add 4 tablespoons finely chopped nuts and 2 tablespoons preserved ginger. Work in cream until mixture is smooth. Season to taste with salt while mixing. Fill prepared dates with this mixture and arrange on a bed of lettuce. Drop a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center of each plate and top with a teaspoonful of whipped cream lightly seasoned with salt and made pink with paprika.

William and Mary furniture, as produced in America, was almost invariably done in a rich, deep black walnut.

Modern adaptations of the William and Mary style are exceedingly attractive.

Dining room suites, especially in this style afford an opportunity for making the room distinctive. High-backed chairs with bonnet top and drop handles; the dining room chairs with their cup-turned legs, X-shaped stretchers, and the attractive tables offer an enticing comfortable and dignified room to the person who fancies William and Mary.

Two "Natural" Games On Weekend Basketball Schedule

VIKES WILL MEET CARROLL AND H. S. BATTLES NEENAH

Lawrence Plays Thursday Night While Orange Battles Friday

GOOD things seldom come in double portions but the exception will be the rule this weekend when both Appleton high school and Lawrence college basketball teams will go into action against "natural" opponents on the army.

Thursday evening the Vikings, just back from a successful invasion of Iowa will meet Carroll college in a game that should pack the armory until it bulges. And then Friday night the high school will entertain Ole Jorgenson's Neenah aggregation in another game that will pack the building to the rafters.

Although they haven't much to say, it's not hard to note that the Viking basketeers feel pretty good about their two midwest victories. Both Coe and Cornell have mighty tough teams to defeat, especially the latter five, and the fact that the Vikings looked best against them has made Coach Denney hopeful of a victory Thursday.

An incident that brought back reminiscences of Roy Riegels run the wrong way on New Years day occurred at Cornell when the men on the floor were given the wrong time and started to "stall" too soon. They asked for the remaining time which was 12 minutes when holding a substantial lead, and instead were signaled the number of minutes that had been played. The stalling antics permitted Cornell to score twice and then the Vikings had to fight that much harder to hang on to their victory.

But all in all it appears as if the Vikings finally have gotten under way. Their offense which was terrible in the Marquette game has been revamped and now is a threat against any team. Irving Jackals has gone to forward after an absence of several weeks from the court and with Biggers is hitting a stride that will make them hard to stop. Schneller and Laird help round out the offense.

The guards too, have been changed Jerry Slavic being sent from forward back to his old positions at guard and again has fallen into his old ways. He and Pierce with a couple substitutes to relieve them now give the Vikings a veteran defensive combination.

Up at the high school Coach Joseph Shields isn't quite as confident about beating Neenah as he was earlier in the season. Schneller, all state center, is back in the Neenah lineup and with the big fellow in Shields is afraid he'll have to drop Drift's game.

His Orange jerseyed aggregation has played its last two games away from home, one at Marinette and the other at Stevens Point. Reports from up north are that the highs looked mighty good against the northerners and if that is the case they may upset the dope Friday.

Shields probably will pit all his defensive strength against Neenah Friday and if it's successful he may come through with a victory. Jake Scheeler and Bobby Kunitz will bear the brunt of the guard work but will be helped materially by Gochnauer who is a mighty handy running guard and Haroth at center. Shields believes he has discovered why the big fellow hasn't been playing his best ball and as soon as he remedies the condition, expects to have him hitting his old stride.

Should the coach decide on a defensive game against Neenah, it will be up to Berg to do most of the shooting. He came through against Neenah several weeks ago and can do so again.

Coach Jorgenson's team is reported to be much better now than several weeks ago and is running roughshod through the Northeastern Wisconsin conference. Neenah again has a gang of six footers that can play basketball with any team in the state.

KIMBERLY SECONDS WANT CAGE GAMES

Kimberly — The newly organized Club second team, formerly Lefty's Aces, came through with three victories last week. The Appleton Y. M. C. A. were the first victim at a game played as the preliminary for the Kimberly-Kohler game. Despite the fact that the Aces were forced to play the last quarter with only four men the score was 16-16 in their favor at the crack of the gun.

On Friday the Aces traveled over to Stockbridge where they met Jimmy's Aces of that town and the Aces came out on the good end of a 31-29 score.

On Saturday at the Oneida Indian reservation, Buck Le May caged 10 baskets and two free throws and Gossens hooped nine ringers.

Anyone desiring to play the Aces on their home floor can arrange a game by writing Matt DuPont, Kimberly. The boys are all booked up for Kimberly games so the contracts cannot be played on the Kimberly floor.

VIKE FROSH MAY PLAY CARROLL--BUT NOT HERE

Although reports from Carroll college are that the Pioneer freshmen will meet Lawrence college Thursday evening in armory G, the report is wrong, according to Lawrence authorities. A game has been scheduled for the Vike frosh but according to the original schedule it is to be played at Waukesha. If the game is to be played at Appleton, it won't be played, in the opinion of Vike authorities who say they can't afford to bring a freshman team here to compete.

APPLETON SKATERS ENTER BAY RACES

Bertha Bell, Clem Kitzinger Won Cups at Last Year's Meet

Appleton again will be well represented in the Northeastern Wisconsin Skating races at Green Bay next Sunday afternoon, if the demand for entry blanks can be taken as any indication. So far the Bell sisters, Clem Kitzinger, Bob and Art Roemer have signified their intentions of racing and have forwarded blanks to the Green Bay Press Gazette. Others who wish to enter the Bay races can secure blanks at the Appleton Post-Crescent office.

Bertha Bell and Clem Kitzinger won cups last season, Miss Bell for the second successive time. If she wins the cup again this year she retains possession of it. A year lady from Marinette will give her the most competition, according to reports for she has also won the cup twice and has announced her intention of racing again this year.

APPLETON ACES LOSE MATCH TO WIENERS

BOSTON BRAVES TO HAVE MANY OLD MEN ON ROSTER

Joe Dugan, Maranville, George Sisler Will Try Infield Berths

BY WILLIAM R. KING Associated Press Sports Writer

OSTON—(P)—President-man ager Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves hasn't been worrying about his ball club lately. He hasn't had time.

The genial magnate, who started the baseball world when he sold

Rogers Hornsby and when announced

he would manage the club himself, does not even know how many players he will have when his squad gathers at St. Petersburg, Fla., several weeks hence.

During the last few weeks, when he should have been perfecting his pre-season plans, Fuchs has been kept on the jump explaining his club's connection with the passage of the Sunday sports referendum and his efforts to obtain a Sunday

baseball permit from the Boston city councils.

Fuchs is positive about one thing,

however. He is going to have plenty of assistance managing his 1929 edition of the Braves. After trading Hornsby, he retained Johnny

Evers and Hank Gowdy, who played for the club back in the happy days

as his understudies.

He is also going to have veteran ball players, for he has claimed or bought every aging star wavered or put up for sale since last October.

Among them are Joe Dugan, who helped the Yankees win five world series, and Rabbit Maranville, who played for the inspired Braves of 1914 and, who, since then, has been burning up the National league with his extraordinary spurs.

Though Fuchs has given it no thought as yet, it is more likely that Dugan will be holding down third base with Rabbit on his left at short stop when the season starts.

Freddy Maguire, who came from the Cubs in the Hornsby deal, is the logical choice for second base and George Sisler will probably be able to retain his first base berth.

The others on the infield list are

Lester Bell, Eddie Farrell and Walter Gaulean, all with the club last season; Jim Messner, purchased from Toledo, and a youth named

James, coming up from the Omaha club in the Western league.

The best outfield combination appears to be Tanco, Richbourg and Earl Clark back again in right and center, and other George Harper, late of the Cardinals, or Al Moore, purchased from Eufaula in the left corner. Fuchs also has retained Eddie Moore, Jack Smith and Heinie

Muller, who chased flies for Horns-

by last season.

Lazzeri was despondent. Twenty-four years of age he figured that he had at least ten years ahead of him in the big league and ten years represented just about $100,000 to him.

And his arm meant just as much to the Yankees for second basemen as good as he was almost priceless.

Lazzeri met Dutch Reuther, former major league star who is now pitching for the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club.

"What you doing about the arm,

Tony?" Dutch asked him.

"Nothing," he answered. "Barrow says to stay away from doctors and rest it. None of the doctors did it any good. Guess I'm licked."

"Why don't you go see Denny?"

Reuther suggested. "He's the best arm guy in the business. He fixed me up last summer a couple of times when I thought mine was gone.

If he can't do you any good you know he won't make it any worse."

RECEIVE DESCRIPTION OF COUNTERFEIT NOTES

BADGER PRODUCTION OF LUMBER IS LESS

Sawmills Also Decreasing in Number in Wisconsin, Says Association

Madison—Wisconsin's lumber production decreased 23 per cent between 1925 and 1927, according to a study compiled from Federal Census of Manufactures figures by the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association.

In 1925 Wisconsin ranked 11th nationally in lumber production. In 1927 the national rank of the Badger State had dropped to 13th. Florida,

North Carolina and South Carolina all produced less lumber than Wisconsin in 1925, but in 1927 North Carolina had climbed to 10th rank and Florida to 12th among the nation's lumber producers.

The 234 sawmills in Wisconsin turned out 1,068,612,000 feet of lumber in 1925. In 1927 the number of sawmills had dropped to 192, with a lumber output of $19,507,000 feet.

This represents a decrease of 37 mills and 24,105,000 feet of lumber in two years.

Applying this rate of decrease in lumber production between 1925 and 1927 to the immediate future conpels the drawing of a gloomy conclusion regarding Wisconsin's future as a lumber producer. A bi-annual decrease of 249,163,000 feet would give Wisconsin a lumber production of 570,402,600 feet in 1929. At this rate of decrease our production would be 221,297,000 feet in 1931

and 72,102,000 feet in 1933. The last

the rate of biennial decrease, or virtual lumber exhaustion.

If this deduction is not attributable to timber shortage, it then must be attributed to the existence of a condition or set of conditions unfavorable to the lumber industry. In either case their transparency for short ultraviolet rays decreases under the influence of light and weather. In view of the importance of this subject the Bureau of Standards has studied a number of those glasses available on the American market and anyone interested may write for the report.

The time, whether it is 1933 or somewhat later, is not far distant when the ring of the lumberjack's axe will remain only as a cherished

Badger State tradition.

With five primary wood using industries numbered among the twenty-largest industries in Wisconsin, and with three more of the leaders drawing heavily upon wood, the advance to wonder what new industry will take the place vacated now passing out of the picture hand-in with Wisconsin's fading forests.

Wisconsin's box factories, sash and door plants, woodenware factories and planing mills alone use some 431,000,000 feet of lumber annually. The timber needs for furniture, paper and wood pulp, excellently in the federal reserve bank of Chicago. It is of the 1914 series, the back plate is No.

"The Firefighters"

Within a few minutes the tramp of marching men would resound through the narrow streets, and, with the Nocturnes clearing the way, a company of fire fighters, clad in metal helmets and leather jackets and trousers, would come up, led by a Centurion. Some would carry wooden hand pumps holding a gallon or more of water; others would have axes and crow-bars; still others would have ladders.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright 1923-24

Behind them would come the Aquarii, numbering hundreds, each carrying an earthenware vase. They would form a "bucket brigade" to the nearest cistern.

Then the fire chief himself would appear on the scene, clattering down the street in a chariot.

The bucket brigade and the men with hand pumps would attack the fire, the men with tools would tear down any walls that were in the way, and the ladder men would rescue persons trapped in upper stories. Sketches and Synopsis, Copyright, 1927, The Crozier Society. (To Be Continued)

ALLIED CHICAGO RAIDERS SUBDU BLOODY SUBURB

CLEANUP AX IS SWUNG INTO CHICAGO HEIGHTS, CITY'S CRIMINAL MAP

By F. ALVIN RENZI

Chicago — (AP) — Chicago's triple entente has swung its cleanup ax into a ten-year reign of lawlessness by invading that bloody spot on the city's criminal map, suburban Chicago Heights.

Sixty-two slayings, 30 in the last three years, lie back of the first swath cut by a new alliance of local county and city police. A den of gambling and liquor syndicates, called the principal source of Chicago's liquor supply, has written most of the suburb's criminal history.

The foreign quarter of the community of 25,000 has echoed to bullets of gang warfare since bootleg hijackers made Chicago Heights a rendezvous for metropolitan badlands nested safe from molestation by Chicago police. Prosecutions were few. Politico-criminal alliance police said, provided a haven of protection for liquor traffic bosses.

Rival gangs competed for liquor business. Gigantic syndicates grew with incessant feuds. Chicago Heights became known as the sore spot in Chicago badlands after "Scarface" Al Capone vacated his Cicero headquarters, which had become all too popular for unwelcome visitors.

Every year has heard guns of slayers. When an official "got in the way," shotguns disposed of him. Lawyer Gilbert, chief of police in South Chicago Heights, wouldn't take much money from gang leaders; they pumped lead into his body. Death threats continually menaced muggers.

Officially decided to lift Chicago Heights from its bog of crime. John A. Swanson, state's attorney-elect, pledged to clean up metropolitan Chicago, urged a united front of the vice-ridden community. It was called the largest raid in Illinois history.

Police said they uncovered a liquor ring that had netted hundreds of thousands of dollars. Twenty-five men, believed to be leaders in the liquor racket, were arrested in the home of Oliver J. Ellis' 423 slot machines were found. Hundreds more were smashed in the raids into more than a score of homes. Ellis told police he had split his profits with two Chicago politicians, among others.

Government squads patrolled Chicago Heights as evidence was hustled to a Cook county grand jury.

Letters found in the raid led police to believe a black hand society, operating in many cities, had directed the suburb's illicit business.

Police said the raid sounded the knell of Chicago Heights' decade of darkness.

"The day is past when criminals can commit a crime in Chicago and flee to a suburb for refuge," said John Stege, deputy commissioner of police.

ARREST MAN WANTED HERE FOR BURGLARY

Stevens Point Youth Admits
Taking Tires from Appleton Shop

Stevens Point—(P)—A search for stolen property led Tuesday to the arrest of two men on charges of burglary in the night time and the recovery of a safe containing $3,000, stolen from the Wisconsin Telephone company offices here earlier this month.

The safe, with its contents intact, was found under a four foot snow drift a short distance outside of the city. One of the two men under arrest, according to authorities, has confessed complicity in the robbery. The safe was dragged from the phone company offices, placed on a sled and driven off during the night.

The men are Lester C. Huffin and Earl Helm, both of Stevens point. According to authorities, Huffin also has confessed complicity in a robbery at Merrill, Appleton, a farm near here and Iola.

Authorities went to the Huffin home to search for four sets of tires stolen from the shop of George Aft, Merrill. They found the sets and also obtained the confession, they said.

Huffin was sought by Appleton police in connection with the burglary of the Hendricks and Ashauer tire shop on W. College-ave on Nov. 19, 1928. Five automobile tires and a radio were taken.

Huffin later admitted the theft and attempted to make restitution. Four of the five tires were found at Stevens Point when Huffin was arrested.

Gately, rector, said he believes the repair work will be completed by the end of the week and that church services will be held as usual next Sunday.

It is expected that the new organ, which is being built by the Austin Organ company of Hartford, Conn., will be installed some time during April. The organ is a gift from Mrs. Lewis A. Alsted and Mrs. F. E. Holbrook as a memorial to their mother, Mrs. J. S. Van Nortwick.

MENASHA COMPLAINS TO RAIL COMMISSION

Protest Bus Service Being Given by Power Company
Busses

The city of Menasha, through its mayor, H. H. Held, has filed a complaint with the Wisconsin railroad commission over the bus service being given that city by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, according to Mayor A. C. Rule of Appleton who conferred with the Menasha mayor Tuesday morning. It was first intimated that the Menasha mayor would call a special meeting of his council and ask officials of other cities and villages in the valley to sit in and offer suggestions. However, Mayor Held has changed his mind on the matter and complained to the commission.

Because of the nature of the dispute, the commission can do nothing, except investigate and then call a special hearing. It has 20 days in which to complete the task of investigating the matter and ordering the hearing. However, it cannot force the city to change its rates because the state laws give cities the right to establish their own license fees.

Other cities and villages in the valley are taking a passive attitude on the matter in the meantime. Mayor Sande of Neenah, Mayor Rule and City Attorney Alfred C. Bossen, and Presidents Doerfer and Jansen of Kimberly and Little Chute, respectively, have been given permission by their councils to act in behalf of the cities and villages to settle the dispute. They will be unable to act, however, until after Menasha takes some action.

COUNTY POSTPONES TRUCK PURCHASES

Committee Considers Advisability of Buying Larger Machines to Remove Snow

Postponing action on bids for two trucks and two snow plows, the county highway committee Monday afternoon decided on a further investigation before purchasing more snow removal equipment.

Another meeting will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the office of the county highway committee to advertise for bids for an addition to Riverview sanatorium. Bids must be in the hands of the clerk by Monday, Feb. 11, when they will be opened by the committee.

Construction of the addition which will give the institution an increased capacity of more than 50 beds, will start as soon as possible, provided a satisfactory bid is turned in. The committee hopes to have the addition completed by next November.

The suggestion that the trucks under consideration were too small to cope with the heavy snow usually experienced in this section of the state was advanced.

Bids for the project were advertised for several months ago, but were rejected, the committee considering them too high. The addition will probably cost in excess of $100,000, it is believed.

Several larger trucks suggested for purchase have weight of about 12 tons. Trucks of this size are being used in adjoining counties, such as Brown and Winnebago, and little difficulty has been experienced so far this year in keeping the roads there open, it was reported.

Appleton, with 136 votes, placed ninth in the contest.

Ripon broadcast its program the night of April 18. In response to its radio presentation it received 918 communications from outside its own corporate limits, and surpassed the number of applause letters received by any of the other 28 cities entered in the contest.

Second place was won by Cudahy with 265 votes, third by Portage with 239, fourth by Kohler with 235, fifth by West Bend with 220, and sixth by Sheboygan with 174.

South Milwaukee received 152 votes, Appleton 136, Oconomowoc 118 and Palmyra, Kenosha, Edgerton, Chilton, Columbus, Hartford, Hartland, Waukesha, Randolph Sheboygan Falls, Mukwonago, Janesville, Wautoma, Kaukauna, Menasha, Delavan, Beloit, Beloit, Beaver Dam, and West Allis received less than 100 votes each.

POSTPONE FREIGHT
